

Project Description

We are a Berlin based non-profit-association founded in 2018 by a transnational collective of activists. With our ship MARE LIBERUM (pleasure craft) we monitor human rights in the Aegean Sea, mainly off the coast of Lesbos. Our vessel is operated by a crew of five people who combine a variety of skills and knowledge, such as nautical, engineering, media, human rights advocacy, research expertise and experience in search and rescue operations.

Our crew at sea can rely on a back-office structure which provides all necessary administrative work meanwhile engaging in further research and the processing of all our findings from our monitoring activities at sea.

To keep our costs low we must ask for a minimum commitment of 4 weeks, to cover flights to and from Lesbos (until 300euros) (exceptions possible). All onboard expenses, including food and accommodation are covered. Conditions on board are basic- you will sleep in shared cabins and work with a team of volunteers from different backgrounds. You may spend several nights in a row at sea, mostly on anchor but during this time on monitoring duty (night watch in shift system), which involves being awake and alert for several hours during the night, watching the coastline and document any activity.
